Scope:

In order to demonstrate the validity of the individual component improvements despite the competing electrochemical phenomena, demonstration of a full sized stack is mandatory. The following key objectives must be addressed by the project collaboration:

- Validate performance and durability of single cells or small stacks with adequate cross section area for automotive applications (> 150 cm²). Both experimental and modelling evaluation has to be taken into consideration
- Understand component and stack degradation mechanisms in real operating conditions using both experimental and modelling approaches
- Align specifications and interfaces for each component and architecture with special attention to interface optimisation between each component (GDL/electrodes, electrodes/membranes, BP/MEA...)
- Define, achieve and evaluate new architectures and prototypes optimizing electrochemistry, water and heat management
- Generate inputs for further development of advanced fuel cell system components in order to fulfil broader requirements of OEMs
- Transfer of proposals for optimization of Balance-of-Plant components development according to optimized component operating conditions.

Other Information:

The consortium must include at least one automotive OEM and a fuel cell system integrator (not required if the OEM is itself a fuel cell system integrator), relevant suppliers to the automotive industry capable of fulfilling automotive standards with above optimized components and research institutions.

Project proposals wanting to address issues on the fuel cell system and system components should consider the topic FCH-01.3-2015: Development of Industrialization-ready PEMFC systems and system components.

Indicative funding: The FCH 2 JU considers that proposals requesting a contribution from the EU of EUR 6 million would allow this specific challenge to be addressed appropriately. Nonetheless, this does not preclude submission and selection of proposals requesting other amounts.

Number of projects: A maximum of 1 project may be funded under this topic.

Expected duration: 3-4 years

Type of action: Research and Innovation Action

The conditions related to this topic are provided in the FCH2 JU Work Plan 2015 and its General Annexes.

Please read carefully all provisions below before the preparation of your application.

The budget breakdown for this call is given in the call conditions section of the work programme.

- 1. List of countries and applicable rules for funding: described in part A of the General Annexes of the FCH2 JU Work Plan 2015.
- 2. Eligibility and admissibility conditions: described in part B and C of the General Annexes of the FCH2 JU Work Plan 2015.
3. Evaluation
 - 3.1 Evaluation criteria and procedure, scoring and threshold: described in part F of the General Annexes of the FCH2 JU Work Plan 2015.

Specific challenge: Research on new models of care organisation demonstrates that advanced ICT systems and services may have the potential to respond to, amongst others, the increasing burden of chronic disease and the complexity of co-morbidities and in doing so contribute to the sustainability of health and care systems.

One challenge in re-designing health and care systems is to develop integrated care models that are more closely oriented to the needs of patients and older persons: multidisciplinary, well-coordinated, anchored in community and home care settings, and shifting from a reactive approach to proactive and patient-centred care.
